MONDAY, NOVEMBER 1.

STATE OF WISCONSIN, THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION. BY THE GOVERNOR.

Through the goodness of Almighty God, health, peace, prosperity, and security to person and property have been accorded to the people of Wisconsin the past year, and our industries have received abundant rewards. Because of these benefits it is due that we reverently, and with sincere hearts return thanks to him for his blessings.

Now, therefore, in accordance with the proclamation of the President of the United States, I, Jeremiah M. Rusk, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, do hereby appoint a day of public thanksgiving and praise, and I recommend that on that day the people of this State abstain from their usual vocations and return thanks for the innumerable blessings bestowed upon them by the Supreme Ruler, and that they remember by substantial benedictions the kindly deeds, the poor and afflicted among them.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1887,

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed. Done at the Capital [sic] in Madison this 25th day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

J. M. RUSK.

By the Governor:

EUSTIS G. TURNER, Secretary of State.

The richest of the judges of the United States supreme court is Justice Bradley, whose fortune is estimated at $750,000.

They who work with their hands and their heads never become aristocrats. All aristocrats are those who work with their mouths and feed themselves at saloons.

"Why hails the bison of reform?" asks a mugwump paper. The bison of reform has not been set in motion since the mugwumps elected a democratic president.

The National Butter, Egg, and Cheese association is strongly in favor of having eggs sold by the pound instead of the dozen. They claim, with a good deal of force, that there is no more sense in selling eggs by the dozen than there is in selling chickens and turkeys by the dozen or by the pair regardless of the weight.

Louisville Courier-Journal: The figure 7 always appears in an American pane year. There were panies in 1837, 1857, and 1873. It is also to be noted that the higher the tariff is the worse is the piano.

The Courier-Journal should note that there will be a panic in '88, and the republican party will not be the one to run either.

Speaker Carlile thinks that the revenue would be reduced of $70,000,000. He proposes a compromise measure cutting down the custom duties to the extent of $50,000,000, and the internal revenue to the extent of $20,000,000. The latter reduction he would accomplish by removing the tax on manufactured tobacco.

The present speaker speaks approvingly of ex-Commissioner Sparks' "rugged integrity." It was the labor of Mr. Sparks in making a "rugged" road for the railroad land-grabbers that caused him to be kicked out of office.—Chicago Journal.

Yes, that is it. The letter of Mr. Cleveland's, endorsing Sparks and then kicking him out of office, is a good idea, like the democratic national platform of '84 on the tariff question. It was a double header. It was for protecting the industries of the country, but against the tariff. So Cleveland endorsed Sparks' "rugged integrity," but kicked him out of office because that "rugged integrity" was against land-grabbers. How beautifully consistent is the reform president!

The vanity of this world is quite morbid and conspicuous in some people, and it is strikingly displayed in a Boston man and his wife who are having their coffin made, at a cost, it is said, of not less than $10,000. Each of these favored individuals will have a double casket, one inner and one outer, magnificently carved. No doubt these good people will find a great deal of satisfaction after death in lying in coffins that beat any other in Boston in cost and beauty. Then, again, they may find considerable pleasure in attracting attention while they live, long enough to be laughed at.

Mr. Murat Gladstead, editor of the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette, has written an essay in which he tabulates the white and colored vote in the southern states in support of the proposition that the democratic party in the south had nullified the war amendments to the constitution. He declares that the great political issue next year is not merely whether the democratic party shall retain control of the executive department of the federal department, but whether the country shall run the risk of democratic control of the senate and the supreme court also, by which, he expresses fear, the war amendments to the constitution may be declared invalid. This essay is contributed to the Forum for December.

A writer in the Inter Ocean who wants to see Hawley and Harrison nominated for the presidency and vice presidency next year, says: It is not safe to say that any northern man on the republican ticket could carry a single northern state unless it be that General Hawley could carry North Carolina by virtue of his being a native of that state. The next president elect must receive 201 votes. The present incumbent will start with 150 from the south, and his opponent with 183 from the north, making it necessary for the former, if elected, to receive 48 from the north, or the latter, if elected to receive 19 from the north. Hawley can carry Connecticut and Harrington can carry Indiana—just the 19 votes needed. These are honest, competent, and available men. Then why not nominate them and make sure of republican victory."

The home organ of Douglass Dickinson of Detroit, the future postmaster general, gives its political friend quite a compliment, and suggests that he will be called upon to supply the administration with brains, for there are none connected with it at present. The Evening News, for that is the name of Douglass Dickinson's paper, says:

Mr. Cleveland will have in his new postmaster-general a man who has grown up with the country and who does not shiver with alarm when he hears a new name advanced. It is in this latter regard that Douglass Dickinson will be most valuable, for he is the man which thus far has been one of mere routine. Mr. Cleveland himself has no more imagination than a clam, and his constitutional advisers are very much the same sort of men. The result of this combination has been an administration without a policy, for certainly no one will call the civil service business a policy. It may have been well enough that the cabinet was formed of such men in the beginning, but it is now time to show the country that the party is capable of something more than routine.

In speaking of the live questions of the day, which it seems, the administration has lost sight of, the News says:

These are questions whose intelligent solution would make any administration immortal in the future history of the country. To face them and solve them correctly requires men of a higher grade than Douglass Dickinson, who has about as much of a different stamp from Garland, the plodding attorney; Maynard, who knows the constitution by heart, and knows nothing else; Whitney, the smart lawyer and cunning New York politician; Viles, the railroad operator; Fairchild, the money-changer; and Lamar, the pedagogue—all of whom are perfectly content to let well enough alone.

There are a good many democratic persons of the independent sort, that can criticize Cleveland's administration about as earnestly as an opposition paper.

Waupaca will soon have an interesting insanity case to settle which will attract attention in all parts of the state. Several weeks ago Charles Rollin Brainard, of Waupaca, was committed to the Northern hospital on the application of his mother. Two physicians certified to his insanity. The county judge didn't know whether he was sane or not, but was guided by the report of the doctors. Dr. Keepster pronounces Brainard sane, and therefore refused to accept him as a patient, but permitted him to remain as a sort of visitor. He has the freedom of the hospital, and goes to Oshkosh, Chicago, and Milwaukee at pleasure. Brainard is a man of splendid education. He is related by marriage to the late Henry Ward Beecher, and is a writer of considerable note. He has contributed scores of articles for Appleton's cyclopedias, and has written many interesting sketches for the metropolitan press. He is some what eccentric, and therefore some regard him insane. It is said his mother desires his commitment to the hospital that she may have the sole management of the property left by her husband. A dispatch from Waupaca says:

County Judge Ogden received the petition of Dr. A. J. Burgess, of Oshkosh, last night, asking for a rehearing and trial by jury, in the case of Charles Rollin Brainard, who is claimed is unlawfully incarcerated in the asylum. Dr. Kempter, of the hospital, pronounces Brainard perfectly sane, but a majority of the people in the city, who have been in the habit of seeing him nearly every day for the past six months are strongly of the belief that he is insane, and a dangerous person to be at liberty. Judge Ogden has set the day of rehearing or trial for Monday, Nov. 23, and the case will probably occupy the attention of the court for several days, and certainly be quite a bill of expense to the county.

Everybody who loves the work of the Women's Christian Temperance Union is doing throughout the land will rejoice that Miss Frances E. Willard has been re-elected president of the organization. She is a splendid woman—noble in her womanhood and intensely earnest in her religion and in her temperance work, but it is a pity that at times she allows herself to get into the clutches of some of the political demagogues and unprincipled leaders of the third party prohibitionists. I see much politics of the kind S. John and General Fisk are peddling through the country will demoralize every effort to abolish the saloons. They are building them up and not tearing them down. Therefore, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union should not allow politics to cripple its usefulness.

In connection with Miss Willard's re-election to the presidency of the Union it will be interesting to note an incident which occurred at Nashville one week ago last Sunday evening. When she was introduced to an immense audience on that evening, she was referred to as one whose name need not be spoken, for she was known by her works, and her friends were numbered by her congregation. Then this woman, whose life is so lofty and mission so high, with tears in her voice told that story of her youth that is hope to all who are willing to toil upward in the right. She said:

When I heard Dr. Fitzgerald speak those words, right away my thoughts went back to the old farm in Wisconsin where I was reared, and to one particular Sunday when it was too stormy to go to church, which was some miles away. I remember standing there in the wide open hospitable door of the barn with my brother, taller than I, on one side, and my dear little sister on the other. As the fog set in and the storm cleared, we could see a little ways in every direction, we lived so isolated. My heart smelt excitement and pain, and I said to them, my dearest and truest comrade, "Do you think we will ever go anywhere, and where, and anybody, and ever do anything?" and we both cried that morning. I felt so lost.

To-night I could cry because the world has grown so wide, and so full of kindness, and so full of blessed work for Christ.

Every boy and girl in Janesville should read these sentences from Miss Willard. They are full of pathos, and yet full of encouragement for hundreds of young people who are engaged in Christian work. Her life has been noble by dint of labor and intense earnestness. How many will follow her example to the full extent of their talents?

SIOUX CITY'S GREAT TRIAL. Arnesford's Counsel Preparing to Impose the Testimony of Harry Leavitt. Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 21.—Harry Leavitt prepared to give his testimony as a witness at the first trial of Arnesford, though his evidence did not materially differ from that given previously. All day long the court-house was thronged. His cross-examination, which was thorough and exacting, began at the opening hour and only terminated with the adjournment of court. The defense held its foundation on impeaching his evidence. In doing so particularly, however, that side also sought to establish the fact that the crowd that went to the Columbia House corner the night of August 3, 1886, did not contemplate severe personal injury to Rev. Haddock; that they had arranged no plan, but leisurely walked west from Junkt's saloon until on the corner of Fourth and Water streets they met the minister; that one of them had been well enough that Haddock, when struck upon the head, had fled with the others; that the crowd had no malice toward the minister; that the men who had followed him were six watchmen employed on the premises, but they were helpless to check the flames. Five of the watchmen have reported, but one is missing. The upper portion of the building was filled with hay and straw. The State lawyers evidently do not care as to the impeachment of the direct testimony, relying for their strength upon corroborative evidence.

Leaving has acknowledged that he had been prompted immorally by the Government to testify. The defense will endeavor to show that he is conveniently located near the Canadian line so that he can leave that country if necessary. This week promises some very material, though not sensational, developments.

The elephants were turned up and thirty-six broke from their fastenings and dashed through the sides of the burning building. Their roar and trumpeting and sounds of torment were terrible. Six elephants and a large African hippopotamus rushed about the streets presenting a singular appearance. Their sides were burned and great pieces of flesh a foot square fell off. Thirty elephants had been captured and made their escape and have started out across the country toward Fairbank and Stanton.

Thirty elephants had been captured and made their escape and have started out across the country toward Fairbank and Stanton.

Great alarm has seized many residents of the west end, and they have taken refuge within their houses with windows barred. William Newmark, the elephant trainer, is out of town, and the keepers were not able in the excitement to herd the frightened animals. In the horse-stable, in the rear of the building, all the stallions were turned loose. About 100 horses and houses were burned and scores of families are homeless. The temperature is zero and great suffering prevails. The loss is estimated at $200,000. The latest reports say that very little is left of the town and that great destruction and distress prevail.

NATIONAL GRANGE CONVENTION.

Resolutions Adopted Demanding Socialistic Organizations and Their Agents.

LANSING, Mich., Nov. 21.—The fourth session of the National Grange was held in Representative Hall Saturday. A resolution introduced by J. H. Hale of Connecticut, asking the National State and subordinate orders to petition Congress to have the present rate of postage on seeds and plants reduced from sixteen to eight cents was unanimously adopted.

A resolution was adopted saying that the Grange is in favor of the use of protection against monopolies, but regretted the organization of Socialistic societies and saying that these societies are condemned and denounced by the present session of the National Grange:

COUNTY JUDGE OGDEN RECEIVED THE PETITION OF DR. A. J. BURGESS, OF OSHKOSH, LAST NIGHT, ASKING FOR A REHEARING AND TRIAL BY JURY, IN THE CASE OF CHARLES ROLLIN BRAINARD, WHO IS CLAIMED IS UNLAWFULLY INCARCERATED IN THE ASYLUM. DR. KEMPTER, OF THE HOSPITAL, PRONOUNCES BRAINARD PERFECTLY SANE, BUT A MAJORITY OF THE PEOPLE IN THE CITY, WHO HAVE BEEN IN THE HABIT OF SEEING HIM NEARLY EVERY DAY FOR THE PAST SIX MONTHS ARE STRONGLY OF THE BELIEF THAT HE IS INSANE, AND A DANGEROUS PERSON TO BE AT LIBERTY. JUDGE OGDEN HAS SET THE DAY OF REHEARING OR TRIAL FOR MONDAY, NOV. 23, AND THE CASE WILL PROBABLY OCCUPY THE ATTENTION OF THE COURT FOR SEVERAL DAYS, AND CERTAINLY BE QUITE A BILL OF EXPENSE TO THE COUNTY.

THE FREE DELIVERY SERVICE.

Annual Report of the Superintendent—A Special Agent of the Post-Office Department.

WATERSIDE, Nov. 21.—The annual report of Colonel J. F. Bates, superintendent of the free delivery system of the Post-Office Department, shows that since July 1, 1863, the number of free delivery offices has increased from 60 to 189, and that the number of carriers employed increased from 655 to 3,190. The cost of the service for the last fiscal year was $4,118,622, an increase of $306,385 over the previous year. The report shows that during the year the free delivery system increased 2,041,564,036 pieces of mail matter, an increase during the year of over 255,000,000 pieces.

NATIONAL PROHIBITION LEAGUE.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—The National Committee of the Prohibition party will meet in this city November 30 to determine the time and place of holding the forthcoming convention.

WATERSIDE, Nov. 21.—The annual report of the Post-Office Department shows that the free delivery system increased 2,041,564,036 pieces of mail matter, an increase during the year of over 255,000,000 pieces.

THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The New York Anti-Saloon League has issued a call for a conference to be held at Syracuse on December 15 and 16. They declare in their circular that the late election showed that the liquor interests are intent on the Republican party, and that the party has nothing to loss by taking a stand against them.

STEAMBOAT INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The annual report of Inspector-General Daumont, of the Steamboat Inspection Service, is made public.

The service is composed of 137 persons.

During the year 1886 120 vessels were inspected and 27,085 officers licensed. Forty-six cases of larceny were reported.

Mr. Joseph Chamberlain and Sir Charles Tupper were introduced by Secretary Bayard and Sir Lionel S. West performed the ceremony of the induction.

Dr. Kempter, of the hospital, pronounced Brainard perfectly sane, but a majority of the people in the city, who have been in the habit of seeing him nearly every day for the past six months are strongly of the belief that he is insane, and a dangerous person to be at liberty. Judge Ogden has set the day of rehearing or trial for Monday, Nov. 23, and the case will probably occupy the attention of the court for several days, and certainly be quite a bill of expense to the county.

A WONDERFUL ANALYSIS.

THE GAZETTE.

A Simple Physical Trouble
Shown to be the "Beginning of the End".

What is a cough? It is an irritation of the throat and lungs. Whatever it is? Congestion, the irritation, the irritation, the cough. Ah, there is where physicians have always been puzzled. But it must be checked or pneumonia or Quinsy or whatever disease will follow. Some doctors give no cod liver oil, others cough syrups, but the most advanced practice of medicine, Natural, is to stop the cough. And they will do it. See what physicians say:

Prof. Austin Flint of Harvard (New York) College says: "The presence of alcohol stimulates the nerves of the striking characteristics of the practice of medicine during the past century."

Dr. J. M. Mott, of New York, says: "The purity of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is as simple analytical tests will reveal, and a physician can easily ascertain its certainty or not to the highest public favor."

Dr. Wm. T. Cutler, State Chemist of Connecticut, says: "Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey contains no inferior qualities and its absolute purity, as well as scientific mode of manufacture, must command the general use of it."

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is a certain cure and preventive of congestion, and is kept in every family. It is made by all druggists and dealers. Be sure and secure the genuine.

STOPPED BY SNOW.

Trains Snowed in Near This City Sunday Morning.

The Rockford Passenger Stays in a Drift Most of the Night.

The train from Rockford that should have reached Janesville at 4:45 Saturday afternoon failed to appear until nearly nine hours later.

It got in most of the night in a four foot snow bank near Davis Junction. The cars had to be shoveled out one at a time.

There was also trouble between the city and Milwaukee. Nearly all the telegraph and telephone wires went down early in the day and trains were sent through only with much difficulty.

The train due at nine o'clock was not heard from until after two o'clock Sunday morning. Even then it came near getting without conductor. The one that started from Milwaukee with it fell into a snow drift up to his shoulders and had to be pulled out with a rope from the platform of the car.

On the Northwestern road the trouble caused by the snow was not so much noticed. All of the trains were more or less late but not enough so to cause serious inconvenience.
